Stockholders may submit their communications to the Board of Directors or individual directors on a confidential or anonymous basis by sending the communication in a sealed envelope marked “Confidential – To be opened only by the Secretary of the Company.” The Secretary, if a person other than the General Counsel, of the Company will compile all communications and forward them to the General Counsel.

Unless anonymous, stockholder communications should state the full name of the stockholder and, if the stockholder is not a record holder of the Company’s common stock, should be accompanied by appropriate evidence of stock ownership.

II. Treatment of Communications

The General Counsel or his or her designee will review all communications submitted using the process described in Section I above and forward such communications to such director or group of directors as the General Counsel or his or her designee deems necessary or appropriate. Stockholder communications that relate to accounting, internal accounting controls or auditing matters will be processed in accordance with our Accounting Complaints Policy.

The General Counsel or his or her designee is not required to forward certain communications in accordance with this Policy if it is determined, in the General Counsel's or his or her designee's discretion, that the communication is:

- unrelated to the duties and responsibilities of the Board of Directors (including, for example, communications related to product or service complaints, product or service inquiries, resumes or other forms of job inquiries, surveys, business solicitations or advertisements);
- unduly hostile, threatening or illegal; or
- obscene or otherwise deemed to be inappropriate.

Any communication that is not forwarded pursuant to this Policy may be made available to any director upon request.

The General Counsel or his or her designee will maintain a log of all stockholder communications, tracking their receipt, processing and resolution, and will provide the Chairperson of the Board of Directors with a copy of all log entries on a periodic basis. Copies of communications and the log will be maintained in accordance with the Company's document retention policy.
